LOVE THOSE LIONS
PENN UNIVERSITY STATE

“When it came time for me to make my decision for the yearbook dedications I stood back and thought about who had been there to help the Class of 1987. It didn't take me long to decide.

Mr. James McDonnell has always been there to help the class. If it wasn't for him this yearbook would not be possible. An award-winning yearbook takes time and demands devotion. Both of these he was readily willing to give.

Throughout the past four years I have watched Mr. McDonnell work with the yearbook staff and sometimes it was a bumpy ride, but with the loyalty of such a driven man like him, how could it possibly fail? Many cards and letters have come back to congratulate him on the outstanding job he has done, but to him it's "the kids" who have done it. During his fourteen years as yearbook advisor we have won many awards. Since 1978 we have been nominated for the prestigious Printers Industry of America Graphic Arts Award. This award is usually the prime domain of the college books. We have entered the New England Competition seven times and we have finished with 6 first and 1 second , the last four years we have been the top book in New England.

When I decided on the dedication I wanted it to go to someone who believed in the Class of 1987, someone who took time to help us as a whole, I feel I have made an excellent decision.

I can't put this in the book without him knowing, so I want to tell you Mr. McDonnell that you are extremely worthy of this dedication and I am happy to give it to such a fine man.

Stephanie Turner

"The key ingredients in an award-winning yearbook are a strong theme, good writing, and excellent photographs. The latter has been a constant here at Waltham High since 1975. That was the year Mr. McDonnell fit the last and most important piece to the puzzle by hiring Mr. Terry Bleiler as our "official" photographer. Since that time Terry has been a fixture at all Waltham High School's events.

Working closely with the yearbook staff to provide us with the pictures we need to put our theme across is just one of his many strong points. Terry also works with the many different personalities here at Waltham High and always does an excellent job. Terry covers close to forty schools, but he makes us feel that we are his only account. On many occasions Terry has re-shot pictures because he felt the quality was not up to our standards. Terry also gets to know a majority of the seniors and makes each and everyone of them feel important. Terry also serves as our "official" publicity director by proudly showing our book to all of his accounts. When he goes to a new school to bid the only yearbook he brings is ours.

I would like to thank you on behalf of all our past editors you have worked with. Without you we would never be Number 1, but thanks to you we are. So it is with a great deal of pleasure that I dedicate this edition of the Mirror to Mr. Terry Bleiler.

Best Homecoming Parade ever!

The date: Friday, November fourteenth. The place: Waltham Senior High School. The time: 7:30AM. Students throughout the building pour into their homerooms just as on any other day. This, however, is no ordinary day, for Homecoming '86 is about to begin.

1:06PM: There is a great gathering in the school's gymnasium, where the celebration is being kicked off by way of a rally. Stationed to the far left of the entrance, the band sets the festive mood of the afternoon, and then brings everything to order with the rendition of the national anthem. The room is electric.

Early events of the rally center around the football team's upcoming game aganist arch-rival, Newton North. An excited audience looks on with unanimous approval as the players maul a banner depicting the ever-hated Fig Newton (North) box. Then, as the Senior cheerleaders take to the floor, they are joined by the Senior members of the football team, who, not wanting to be lost in the crowd, accompany them in a victory cheer. This stirring display of school spirit simply cannot be described by mere words.

Soon the main attraction of the rally is presented. Sandra Robichaud and John Maione are crowned this year's Homecoming Queen and King. Also feeling the thrill of victory are the members of their court: Juniors Lisa Attardo and Sean Flanagan, Sophomores Meredith Millerick and Bobby Felt, and Freshmen Monique Leger and David Maione.

It is now the morning of Saturday, November fifteenth. Winding its way through the streets of Waltham is Waltham High School's pre-game "Squash-Newton-North-Like-A-Bug" parade. As an impressive array of home-made floats progresses towards Leary Field, spectators are particularly impressed by the Student Council "Figmobile," which sports a familiar Fig Newton box mounted on its roof (Most Original), and the volleyball team's decorated mobile playing court (Best Planned). Adding a touch of elegance to the parade are Sandra Robichaud and her court, who make their appearance in a horse-drawn carriage.

Night has now fallen upon Waltham High, but the Homecoming extravaganza is not yet over. The football team has lived up to its promises of victory over the "Figs," and within the school's cafeteria, a celebratory dance is being held. Special guest DJ, Diana Steele, "Lady D." of KISS 108, supplies the music and announces the entry of the Homecoming Queens and Kings onto the floor for their traditional dance together. Also present are members of the football team who participate in a tense and competitive "best legs" contest. Judged by the ladies on the basis of noise, the two sets of victorious legs belong to proud owners, Richie LeBlanc and Tim Regan.

11:30PM: Waltham High is empty. The dance has ended. Homecoming '86 has become a memory for all whom it touched.

Starting off on the right note!

Located deep within one of the hidden recesses of Waltham High is a small group of rooms which house the school's exceptional music department. Although most of us never even think of venturing into this part of the building, those who take band and choir courses come here five times a week for forty-five minutes a day to devote their time to learning various types of music, ranging from John Philip Sousa to Buddy Rich to Beethoven to Kirby Shaw.

The first musical organization to get underway for the 1986-87 school year was the Marching Band. During August, while you and I were sleeping away the last weeks of vacation, these people were already facing the horror of 617 Lexington Street as they attended their second annual summer sessions at Waltham High. Here, they spent their time practicing songs, marching in time, and organizing formations under the leadership of head director Brent Ferguson, University of Lowell students Doreen and Sue Rinard and Louis Prosperie, and their on-the-field leader, Kara Baruch. As a result, the Marching Band was once again able to deliver the football game half-time shows that we have all become and from rehearsals, and, above all, the raising of money for their trip. By selling candy bars and "critters", singing at the Chateau and Piety Corner, and holding concerts, however, this obstacle was overcome (thanks in no small part to the support of the Show Choir parents). As of this writing, the Show Choir, whose members comprise the Jazz Choir, is also expected to display its talent at the New England Show/Jazz Choir Competition. As icing on the cake of the Show Choir's eventful year, Debbie Hallowell was selected by audition to perform in the 1987 MMEA Northeast District Chorus.

Also enjoying successful years were the Wind Ensemble and Orchestra, which are made up of the music department's most talented and dedicated instrumental musicians. Among the several accomplishments of these groups were the selection of Kara Baruch, Lisa Noke, and Nancy Steinberg for participation in the 1987 MMEA Northeast District Orchestra, and that of Dennis Mullane and Lisa Noke to perform in the University of Lowell Preparatory Wind and Jazz Ensemble. As a culmination of their year's work, the Wind Ensemble and Orchestra will be performing a commemorative concert in honor of John Philip Sousa which will feature several pieces written by the late American bandmaster and composer. The Wind Ensemble and Orchestra were directed by Mr. Peter Lancto.

Hit hard by schedule conflicts and alterations, the Jazz Band started off to a rough 86-87 season. After losing several veteran and "rookie" members, among which were three trumpet players, to this difficulty, it became evident that finding music to fit this reduced band would not be easy. Despite this, frequent after school rehearsals and admirable effort helped the Jazz Band to overcome their problems and even enter the District Jazz Competition held at Beverly High School, and the New England Competition held at the University of New Hampshire.

Looking back upon four years in which we could always count on the presence of smoothly performed music at rallies, football games, and assemblies, i became apparent that we took Waltham High's music department for granted. What most of us did not realize was that behind each five minute song that we heard were hours of practice. Thanks to the

Our Student Leaders.

1987 was a year which will stand out in United States history as one of political chaos. After the exposing of the Iranian arms sale scandal, Americans were forced to confront themselves with the disturbing question of who was really running our fair nation. Meanwhile, however, unbeknowst to the general public, a similar, yet far more burning question was being raised by students in the city of Waltham, Massachusetts. They simply wanted to know who was the crew of Waltham High School's ship of state. An answer was demanded, and here it is. (This is kinda like "60-minutes"...but different.) Providing the general government for the entire school during this time was the 1986-'87 Student Council. Chris Buckley, Waltham High's "Rock of Gibraltar," reigned as president of this organization whose other members included Matt Gallagher (Boys VP), Amy Ferolito (Girls VP), Kara Holmquist (Corresponding Secretary), Judith Linnehan (Recording Secretary), and Lynne Dempsey (Treasurer). Additional administration was supplied by the Student Advisory Council which was led by the iron-fisted Lisa Giovanetti and her Vice President, Stephen Goodwin. Their staff consisted of seniors Janet MacInnis, Karen Connelly, and Chris Buckley, and juniors Ann Dacey and Steve Walsh. Together, the two Student Councils, with the guidance of Mr. Stephen Goodwin (Sr.), coordinated the majority of student activities at W.H.S. Notable among these were two blood drives, the student Santa program, the homecoming festivities, and several rallies and dances. They also served as the voice of W.H.S. student body at school committee meetings and were especially instrumental in expressing our negative opinions on the proposed "8-period" schedule.(continued on page 83

Subtly operating behind the scenes of Waltham High's complex government were the officers of the National Honor Society. Elected into office in the spring of '86 by the eighteen initial members of the Honor Society, these leaders were Janet Cloherty (President), Janet MacInnis (Vice-President), Ravi Mallela (Treasurer), and Jean Demeo (Secretary). During their year in power these officers brought honor (sorry about the pun) to Waltham High School by organizing several "Good Samaritan-" type activities. Aside from helping out with the student Santa program, the Honor Society also contributed its time to an American Heart Association phone-a-thon, a Christmas dinner for retarded citizens at Bentley College, a voter registration drive, and a constantly active tutorial program.

Perhaps most familiar to the Class of '87 were its own Class Officers. Andrew Kasper (a.k.a. Ralph Lauren), our fearless President, shared his pedestal of power with Emma Caruso (VP), Sara Cohn (Secretary), and Kim Savage (Treasurer). They not only aided in such activities as the blood drives and the organization of dances, but also handled some big time responsibilities such as the class' gift to the school, and that gala of galas, the prom. In addition, the Class Officers must continue to function long after graduation in order to plan our 5th, 10th, 20th, and 30th year reunions.

That, my friends, is how the Waltham High School Empire was managed during your stay there. I know, it's a lot to absorb all at once, but someday these people may be involved in major league politics and it might be a good idea to know what makes them tick.

Red is the color of love!

Flowers on St.Valentine's Day... what could be more touching? They're as traditional as Mom's apple pie, the World Series, McDonald's, the Flintstones, truth, justice, and the American Way! Let it never be said that Waltham High is one to shirk these customs. Once again, in February of 1987, red, pink, and white carnations filled our halls as the result of an extremely successful sales effort.

For the second straight year, the carnation drive was run by the Student Council, whose treasurer, Lynne Dempsey, handled the main organizational burdens. Backing them up were faculty advisors Mr. Stephen Goodwin and Mr. Anthony Piantedosi, and a task force of helpers which included National Honor Society members, student volunteers, and the homeroom representatives who distributed the flowers.

As a result of their work - and a one-day setback in sales caused by a "devastating" snow storm - over ten thousand carnations were sold and delivered by the end of the drive. As for money, the final numbers were quite impressive. Of the $9,500 grossed by the sale, the Student Council was able to rake in a profit of over $4,700. This marked the second consecutive year in which more than $4,500 was raised.

Where, you might ask, did all of this money go? Well, have no fear. Just as in every preceeding year, the funds raised by the carnation drive were turned over to our guidance department to be distributed among certain seniors as scholarships at the end of the school year.

Of at least equal importance as this, however, was the effect of the carnations themselves on the atmosphere of the school. While, in other cities, students were probably following their routine schedules, here, we were constantly reminded of the fact that it was Valentines Day. What else is there to say? Just chalk another one up for good old American and Waltham tradition.

The Crucible is a hit

For eight weeks during this winter, the Waltham High Stage became 17th century Salem, as the high school drama department put together an outstanding production of Arthur Miller's The Crucible. Written in the 50's during the McCarthy hearings, Miller wanted to demonstrate the ulterior motives of the vindictive, power-hungry people involved in the Salem witch trials and their 1950's counterparts.

Director Ms. Kay LaShoto and assistant director senior Lana Jurigian had a tremendously talented cast to work with. Starring as Elizabeth and John Procter, two innocents who are accused of witchcraft, were senior Kara Baruch and junior Scott Perry. Elizabeth is accused by Abigail Williams (senior Nancy Steinberg) who had had a previous affair with John. John is jailed when he tries to prove to the court (Deputy Governor Danforth, played by senior Jon Williams, and Judge Hawthorne played by junior Danny Lynnworth) that the girls who are accusing innocent people are frauds. He brings his house-girl, Mary Warren (sophomore Jill Livoti) to prove this to the court, but Abigail convinces the court, and Mary, otherwise. Other major roles were played by seniors: Rick Daly portrayed Reverend Parris, Abigail's uncle, who sends for Reverend Hale (Sean Biggins), an expert in the demonic arts. Other senior roles were Ann Putnam (Lisa McDonald), and Giles Corey (Paul Tirone). The parts of both Rebecca Nurse and Marshal Herrick were played by the versatile Karen Burke. Lynne Coxall was the show's props manager, while Vicki Parent and Don Hosick were in charge of tickets. The remainder of the cast was comprised of Michelle Learned, Angela Parente, Trista Repassy, Stacy Porter, Dan Steinberg, Kevin Hill, Karen Pensyl, and Dave Demerjian.

The entire cast and crew did a spectacular job with three performances on March 4th for the junior class, and at night on the 5th and 6th. After the last show, the cast was both relieved and sad at its end, but all these talented actors were already looking forward to the next show!

Under the guidance of director, producer, choreographer, and power pack, Ms. Debbie Peros, the Dance Theatre burst onto the Waltham High scene in the '85-'86 school year. Its presence was made known quite quickly by way of a number of impressive performances. Among these were the Dance Theatre's appearances at the Health Fair, Fine Arts Day, Senior Awards Night, and a hospital benefit show. At these events, Ms. Peros' dancers displayed their skill at a variety of different musical styles. Standout songs from their selection included Elvis' Jailhouse Rock, Rodeo by the Doobie Brothers, Aretha Franklin's Freeway of Love, and Mister Mister's Broken Wings.

The second annual Waltham High Dance Theatre sports an 88 member cast which includes both boys and girls from the freshman through senior classes. By rehearsing intensively (14-15 hours per week for 8 weeks) in the early months of the '86-'87 school year, they were able to perform two near sell-out dance concerts on November sixth and seventh. On these dates, the Dance Theatre revealed a new group of popular numbers that added to its already extensive repertoire. These included Dancing on the Ceiling by Lionel Ritchie, Stand by Me by Ben E. King, Little Richard's Great Gosh Almighty, and Loverboy by Billy Ocean.

Ms. Peros hopes to see the return of the Dance Theatre next season and for each successive year after that. Thanks to her efforts, and those of her students, Waltham High now has its own resident dancing "machine;" once again making it unique among neighboring high schools.

Children are our future.

Contrary to popular belief, children under the age of five are far more than just Sesame Street burnouts. I mean, we've all been there before; and while some of us got progresssively more simple-minded with age, I think it is safe to say that, at that stage of life, our minds were far more complicated than most of our elders thought.

For this reason, Waltham High has established its own "Child Care" program. Here, students are informed about the social, physical, and emotional development of pre-five-year-olds informed about the social, physical, and emotional development of by way of regular classroom instruction and hands-on training

The first half of this two-part, ten-credit course is, more or less, a conventional learning experience. As is stated in the almighty Waltham High School Course Catalog, students enrolled here "...will explore possibilities for educational development in child care ... and gain an understanding of the growth and learning patterns of young children." This information serves to pave the way for those who opt to enter the Child Care program's second half.

the students involved actually get to care for some "childs." "where are these 'childs' found," you might ask. "Just where you would expect them to be, "I might answer. At 11:37 each day, the "Child Care People" are released from school and sent to various local day care centers and elementary schools. In order to fulfill the course requirement, they each must spend a minimum of seven hours per week at their assigned station.

Such is the life of a child care student. A drudgery? Maybe; but knowing that this is how the future moms and teachers of America are being trained kind of makes you wish you were a kid again.

Senior Revue - A fun time for all

When I first learned that I would be responsbile for writing the yearbook article on the 1987 Senior Revue, I realized that there was only one course of action to follow: I would have to go Undercover.

It was an Arctic night in early February when I showed up along with my fellow Senior Revuers at Waltham High's Robinson Auditorium for our first rehearsal. Here, we met the three people who would be our mentors for the next several weeks: Mr. Robert "Head Honcho" Eagle, Mr. Edward "88 Fingers" May, and Ms. Deborah "Fast Forward" Peros.

In the following rehearsals, we proceeded to learn how to sing "all those songs that you know you've heard before but can't remember where." Among these were Lullaby, Beautiful Baby, and That's Amore, and a host of others. Providing a touch of variety to this were a series of dance practices which were choreographed to Party Train, Party All the Time, Surfing U.S.A., Jingle Bell Rock, and some Halloween song that I don't think any of us knew the name of. Meanwhile behind the scenes, as I learned through my extraordinary undercover talents, M.C.'s were trained, soloists were tuned, and small group acts were created.

Before we knew it, showtime had arrived; and what a show it was! For Act I, we sang, as an ensemble, the numbers we had been absorbing for the last month and a half (right after each soloist, of course). Humor was injected between each song by our five M.C.'s, Andy Proia, Andy Kasper, Chris Gelinas, Lisa Giovanetti, and Julie Clarke, who were taught their trade by former Waltham High Senior Revuer, Mark "The Animal" Proia. Also, just to keep the audience on its toes, two radical musical changes were supplied by "Beastie Boys" Ed Murphy, Kara Holmquist, and Ron Harris, and student rock band "Silver Snow."

Act II, as planned by Mr. Eagle, was arranged as a chronicle of the year's holidays and seasons. Beginning and ending with a New Year's celebration, this part of the show included all of our dance numbers and individual and group skits. Among the standout acts presented here were School Days (a piano duet by Debbie D'Amore and Jeff Williams), Doo-Wah-Diddy (a lip-sync/dance/skit), and Filenes (a girls' singing number).

So what if we had to sweat under hot lights for all of Act I? So what if we wore the same outfits for three consecutive shows? So what if we slept 24 hours on the Sunday after the last show? As my last "undercover" discovery, I found that the general feeling among the Senior Revuers was that of the old cliche, "It was worth it."

P.S. Thanks to Mr. Eagle... For putting up with us for much longer than we would have put up with us.

Mr. May..... For being a piano force and a real cool guy too.

Ms. Peros... For being Ms. Peros.

Mark Proia.. For staying up past his bedtime.

A magical evening!

The mystical, magical evening of April 11, 1987 will linger in the minds and hearts of many for years to come. The makings of a memory, or rather the Waltham High School Junior Promenade, was held at the beautiful Hillcrest by and for the Class of 1988.

For many, this memory began with the breathtaking vision of their dates, the awkward pinning on of a corsage, the endless flashing from their parents' cameras, and a luxurious limousine ride.

The memory continued as black, white, and gray limousines pulled up to the main entrance of the Hillcrest to let off their fairy-tale couples. This special night would last only a few hours, but would be filled with so many memorable moments.

The couples danced and talked the night away. Laughter and romance filled the air along with great gushes of happiness. A twinkle of pleasure was seen in many juniors eyes and smiles were apparent on everyone's faces. Our Cinderella for the evening, Kerry Davis, was chosen as prom queen and the magic of the night continued to engulf many. The night passed much too quickly and it was soon time for the last song. The prom itself drew to a close at midnight, but the memories continued long past this hour with parties and beaches.

Unfortunately, the memory ended the next morning when a who attended the junior prom could only look back and refle with brilliant smiles upon their faces as they pondered their special evening. It was then, tha the Waltham High School Junio Promenade became but a glorious memory.

Our future nurses

"Hey you! Empty that bedpan!' This is not a very easy order to take seriously, let alone carry out. Yet, for the group of senior girls who spent their first two years in Waltham High's "Health Careers" program, such a task is just part of the routine.

The disposal of bodily wastes, however, is merely a trivial bit of what these iron-willed ladies have learned through this interesting and unusual course. Health Careers is specially designed to provide information, experience, and a general head start for students who are seriously considering a future in therapy, nursing, or any of several other health-related professions. A major part of the program, as a matter of fact, concerns itself with identifying and describing the many types of these professions that are available in the working world.

In addition, the first half of Health Careers spends a great deal of time covering topics such as first aid, medical terminology, and the fine arts of blood pressure reading, pulse taking, and many other basic medical procedures.

In "year two" the students take this knowledge into one of five local health centers. Broken up into groups of two or three, they are required to spend three hours at their assigned center each Wednesday morning for six weeks. The second half also includes learning of human physiology, diseases, and medical issues being faced by today's society.

A truly enjoyable show.

This spring, Waltham High was the site of office work, board meetings, and a party in the Executive Club. No, it wasn't a corporate takeover, it was the spring musical, How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, performed May 8th and 9th.

Under the direction of Mr. Larry Lowe, with help from choreographer Miss Debbie Peros and musical director Mr. Paul Katz, the drama department outdid itself in two hysterical performances that audiences aren't soon to forget. Spectators left the theater humming snatches of tunes such as Company Way, Coffee Break, Heart of Gold, and Brotherhood of Man.

The plot centers around J. Pierrpont Finch (senior Sean Biggins) and his rise in the business world from lowly window washer to Chairman of the Board in the World Wide Wicket Company. Along the way, he is pursued, and finally captured, by secretary Rosemary Pilkington (junior Michelle Learned). The two are assisted in their rocky relationship by Rosemary's sarcastic but matchmaking friend Smitty (senior Nancy Steinberg). At the business end of the story, Finch is smiled upon by the President of the company, J.B. Biggley (junior Scott Perry), but hindered by J.B.'s nephew, Bud Frump (senior Don Hosick) who is also trying to climb the corporate ladder. Although Bud tries to get Finch in trouble by planting him with J.B.'s curvaceous girlfriend Hedy LaRue (junior Shelia Gailius), and by ruining his attempts at a new advertising campaign, the unbeatable Finch survives by befriending the Chairman of the Board, Wally Womper (played by our very talented history teacher, Mr. Harold Walker). Other seniors involved were Kara Baruch, Karen Burke, Paul Tirone, and Jon Williams.

The cast and crew did an amazing job with a very complex show, especially considering the fact that the show went up with only 18 rehearsals. Mr. Lowe, Miss Peros, and everyone else involved should be proud of a truly enjoyable show.

Holy Bermuda

On April 27th of 1987, after a week-long leave of absence popularly known as "Spring Break," Waltham High's senior class reluctantly returned to the halls of its beloved school. Something, however, seemed to be different about this particular post-vacation crowd. While the premature suntans being sported by several of its members aroused some suspicion, even more curious was their strange new way of speaking. Throughout the building there echoed phrases such as "Holy party," "Holy lost luggage (baggage)," and "Holy Moped." Where did the connection lie? The answer, of course, was "Holy Bermuda."

Yes indeed, for eight glorious days and seven glorious nights a large chunk of the senior class vacationed on that Fantasy Island of the Atlantic, Bermuda. Here, all that was required in order to find a good time was to hop on a moped and manage to arrive safely at a favorite beach, dance club, or hotel, where a party was usually in progress. Spreading themselves thinly at any and all of these affairs were the Bermuda Strollers, a residential band which entertained and socialized with the Walthamites.

For "foreigners," though, the seniors fared pretty well in Bermuda. At Elbow Beach and Horseshoe Bay, Waltham reigned supreme at just about all of the beach games. No part of the island was safe as seniors braved the sea during a two hour cruise and took to the streets where they found dance clubs - 40 Thieves and Touch.

Obviously, this only covers a bit of the Class of '87's week in Bermuda; but, as they say, "a picture is worth a thousand words." So, before this article gets that long, why not scan the next two pages and take in a few grand?

Mr. Cox is outstanding.

For the past four years Mr. John Cox has served as the faculty advisor to the National Honor Society. He has sacrificed a considerable amount of his time to this organization and its members. The National Honor Society coordinates various activities throughout the year which include the Student Santa Program, the Tutorial Program and an American Heart Association Telethon. Mr. Cox plays a significant role in all these activities along with helping to coordinate the various senior activities at the close of the year.

As the President of the National Honor Society I have worked closely with Mr. Cox this past year and can truly say I have never encountered a more sincere, friendly, dedicated teacher and advisor. In everything he strives for perfection and always gives 100 percent.

Leadership, service, scholarship, and character are four qualities distinctive of N.H.S. members and especially of Mr. Cox. Above all he serves as an example for students, in which he encourages them to work up to their potential and strive for success. Mr. Cox has touched my life considerably this year and I am confident he will have the same effect on future students.

We took another step.

Step by step we have made progress improving the book. This year we made a giant stride because of the effort of an outstanding staff. Four students have been with the yearbook for the past four years. They are: Editor-In-Chief Stephanie Turner, Editor Holly Richardson, and Sports' Editors Michelle Brunaccini and Kara Howley. These four young ladies gave a lot of time and effort on behalf of the book. Next I had the two best writers I have ever had, Literary Editors Nancy Steinberg and Nick Kontos. Our Senior Section Editor Karen Stevens worked for the past two years and also did an outstanding job.

The last member of the staff was, without question, our most valuable member. Lisa Noke was more than just the Business Editor, she was the backbone of the book. Lisa chased down more sports' records, quotes, writeups, identifications, and all of the small task that add up to a huge contribution. As Business Editor, Lisa led the way with 56 ads as this year the staff set a record for ads with over $26,500.

Hawks prove mighty

Finish 8 and 2 while playing a demanding schedule

> "Who would have ever thought that the team picked to finish last in the Suburban League ratings would finish 8-2 overall?"
> Chris Gelinas

When reflecting on this year's football season, senior offensive lineman Chris Gelinas noted, "Who would have thought that the team picked to finish last in the Suburban League ratings would finish 8-2 overall?" In fact, the Hawks' surprising year included being rated in the top ten for the whole season.

The season started off dazzlingly, with an "almost perfect" (according to Chris) win over Lexington, 20-0. Of their many other wins, one of the most notable was the destruction of arch-rival Newton North for the excited homecoming crowd. After a festive parade, the Hawks proceeded to "fig Newton", the game ending in a fantastic 18-8 win for Waltham.

Personal achievements ran high this year, with Tim Regan receiving the Middlesex News Defensive Player of the Year and junior superstar Jerome Fuller being chosen as All-Scholastic, to name two.

Jerome probably had the biggest impact on the team this year, leading the Hawks in touchdowns and yardage. However, Jerome couldn't have been the powerful force he was without quaterback Rich LeBlanc, the blocking of Tim Regan and Jack McCarthy, and the outstanding offensive line, which included Chris Gelinas, Claude Chiasson, Steve Meuse, Jorge Orta, and Steve Cotoni. Other senior members of this year's outstanding squad included Jimmy Crowley, Danny LeLievre, Billy Burgess, Steve Giangrande, Phil Brake, Paul Moon, and Mike McNally.

Because of the loss of these and more extraordinary seniors, Fuller and company may have a little rebuilding to do next year, but their success is guaranteed if they are as hard-working and dedicated as this year's team.

> "We reached the goal we set for ourselves at the beginning of the season."
> Dave Power

Picking up after a slightly disappointing 1985 season, the 1986 boys' soccer team put together an outstanding squad whose victories ran high in terms of both the team and the individuals. Modest and understated as always, co-captain Dave Power said of the team, "We reached the goal we set for ourselves at the beginning of the season." Through hard work and dedication, the boys went as far as to qualify for the state tournament, where they played against Andover and "lost a heart-breaking game in two overtimes."

The events in the Waltham season leading up to the tournament were the result of the efforts of a talent-ridden, persevering team. Two wins that demonstrated their superb athletic ability were over Brookline and Brockton. After losing in the last five minutes in the away game at Brookline, Waltham was ready for revenge when Brookline came here. Matt Lasker made the key goal in that game, and John Maione's amazing defense sent Waltham to victory. Dave commented;"The fact that we beat Brookline at home with everything going against us made this game the high point of the season.

The Brockton win qualified the Hawks for the state tournament. The game was a hard one, but both offense and defense put on a shining display of talent and as a result, Waltham came out on top.

The seniors on this year's team will be sorely missed. All four senior captains, Dave Power, Anthony D'Amico, John Maione, and Marcello Joniaux, were chosen as Suburban League All-Stars, and Marcello was an Eastern Mass All Star. He and Dave were the 1986 Outstanding Players, while Maione was awarded the MVP trophy. Other seniors on the team, who all contributed highly to the winning season were Matt Gallagher, Steve MacDonald, Matt Lasker, Dave Gibbs, John Maguire, Ray Pineau, Rodney Sautier, Eric Kampe, and Mark Davy.

These graduating seniors will leave the 1987 team with their winners' attitude of hard work so that they can carry on the tradition of excellence of Waltham High Soccer.

Contrary to what their 5-11 record seems to show, this year's girls' soccer team had a respectable season which included many close games and a second half marked with definite improvement. The varsity squad was led by four talented senior athletes: Kim Savage, Lisa Champagne, Jean Demeo, and Maureen Florio.

The season included many close and grueling games, but the highlight was the intense struggle with rival Brockton. Senior Jean Demeo said of the match, "The team worked together and never let down even though Waltham had half the number of players that Brockton did." The Hawks battled it out until the triumphant end, leaving Brockton nursing the wounds of a 1-0 Waltham victory.

The amazing individual players in '86 gave spirit and dedication to the team, which increased performance tremendously. Kim Savage was the leading scorer for the Hawks, closely followed by outstanding sophomore Lynne Dempsey. In addition, Kim made the Suburban League All-Star team. Lisa Champagne (and her spectacular slide tackles) was the defense's anchor, while Jean Demeo was the team's most versatile player who did her job in any position she was needed. Captain Maureen Florio ensured the team's success with her outstanding overall playing and attitude that made her a well-respected leader.

Many well seasoned players will be returning next year, among them junior Dee Barber, a goalie who made a tremendous amount of saves for the Hawks. Coach John Kelly will miss the four graduating seniors, but he will have a strong experienced team returning to continue with on the Hawks' road to success.

Girls provide spirit

Congratulations girls and thanks for your support!

> "The squad really pulled together and took pride in what they were doing. Everyone contributed their ideas for a routine to make the last rally a good one."
> Kara Howley

Often not given enough credit for their hours of work and dedication, cheerleaders are often overlooked when speaking of athletes. However, Waltham High's cheerleaders have proven that they work just as hard as any other team to encourage spirit on the playing fields and in the stands.

The '86 football season proudly boasted not only an outstanding football team, but the most enthusiastic squad of cheerleaders the Hawks have ever seen. Led by captain Jen Tiano, the football cheerleaders, including seniors Michelle Brunaccini, Amy Ferolito, and Lisa Noke, cheered the team on to many fantastic victories. A particularly memorable game for the girls was against Somerville, where they outlasted a fall rainstorm and got very wet, but didn't let the spirit sag! Besides cheering at the two fall sports rallies and making candy bags for the players, the girls made up the traditional scrapbooks at the end of the season.

The soccer cheerleaders had a challenging year, but all of their hard work paid off, as they contributed greatly to both the rallies and the success of the boys' soccer team. The two senior captains Renee Gobbi and Kara Howley, contributed greatly to the high achievements of the squad, filling in for the coaches when they could not attend practices and games. Despite a lack of practice toward the end of the season, the girls put on a good show at the closing rally. Kara noted that "The squad really pulled together and took pride in what they were doing. Everyone contributed their ideas for a routine to make the last rally a good one."

Through the efforts of both squads of fall cheerleaders, the rallies and both the football and soccer seasons ended in success.

Cheering on the Hawks

The girls were there in good times and bad.

> "Although this wasn't a tournament year for us the season was definitely unforgettable."
> Debbie D'Amore

The 1987 winter sports cheerleaders helped the basketball and hockey teams on to many a victory this year. With the spirit and enthusiasm that could only come from Hawks cheerleaders, they jumped and cheered their way through the season.

Co-captains Deborah D'Amore and Kelli Roche lead the basketball cheerleaders through an exciting season. The squad included four more seniors: Andrea Rando, Lisa Puglielli, Krissy Bankosky, and Erin Sullivan. Of the season co-captain Debbie said "Although this wasn't a tournament year for us the season was definitely unforgettable." The most memorable game for her and the rest of the squad was "the victory over arch-rival Newton North - how sweet it was! By the last minute not a single fan on either side was still seated... or quiet," said Debbie.

The same audience and cheerleader excitement came from the hockey team's performance this year, and senior cheerleaders Karen Courtney, Janice Gaudet, and Debbie Fisher will testify to that.

The winter sports season was a victory filled one this year, and the players have the cheerleaders to thank for all their spirit and dedication.

Hoopsters play tough

Finish third in tough Suburban League

> "Beating Quincy as far as I'm concerned, was our most important victory. That game turned it around for us!"
> Marc Jordan

Although the boys' basketball team finished a respectable third in the tough Suburban League, this year's squad played much "bigger" than that. The hoopsters started out at 0-6, and things looked mighty grim as they traveled to play Quincy away. "Beating Quincy as far as I'm concerned, was our most important victory," recalls co-captain Marc Jordan. "That game turned it around for us!"

Of course, the player who "turned it around" was Darrell Goodman. "When he showed up, we woke up and started playing basketball," Jordan says of this smooth-shooting, 6'2" senior. "Now we had someone to go to at crunch time."

"Crunch time" came twice during the season, and both times the "crunch" was applied by arch-rival Newton North. Both games were Waltham victories, and the Tigers were never the same for the rest of the season. "Beating Newton North by one point, especially on the Tigers' home court, was my most memorable experience of the year," exclaims senior defensive stalwart Steve MacDonald.

Hats off to those rugged, hustling seniors who turned a dismal 0-6 beginning into a source of pride: co-captain Marc Jordan, co-captain Matt Gallagher (second highest scorer), Darrell Goodman (top scorer), Steve MacDonald, Mike Ryan, Bruce Thibault, and Jim Crowley.

An improved effort

Matches are very close

> "North Quincy was one of the best teams in the league and we beat them at home. Other teams heard that we had won and were really intimidated by us. It gave us a good psychological edge."
> Lana Jurigian

The 1986 girls' volleyball team started from scratch this year with a new coach, Lorraine Bogosian, and a varsity team that included only four returning seniors. Despite these apparent setbacks, the girls worked hard, starting practices in late August, and ended up with a season that showed marked improvement in court performance, although the record may not show it. Many matches were lost only two games to one, and those third games often came heartbreakingly close, such as the unforgettable home match against Brockton.

There were many more complete wins this year than in recent seasons, and for that the team can be proud. The most memorable win of the season recalls senior co-captain Lana Jurigian, was against the top-ranked North Quincy team. "North Quincy was one of the best teams in the league," said Lana, "and we beat them at home. Other teams heard that we had won and were really intimidated by us. It gave us a good psychological edge." That win demonstrates how far Waltham volleyball has come, since North Quincy eventually made it to the State Championships.

The spirited individuals on the team, especially the seniors were some of the reasons for the squad's overall achievements. Co-captains Lana Jurigian and Nancy Steinberg were respected leaders both on and off the court, and brought to the team their four years of experience, Lana as hitter and Nancy as setter. At the awards banquet at the end of the season, Lana was chosen Most Dedicated while Nancy was awarded the MVP Trophy. Dina Pallone, the Unsung Hero, was a powerful hitter, a solid blocker, and the team's star server while Debbie Fisher contributed enthusiastically in any area needed, whether it was offense or defense. Seniors Chin-Mei Yu, Daisy Aviles, and Patty Chiasson anchored down the successful JV team and all earned trophies at the season's end.

Since the majority of the varsity team was underclassmen, next year's squad should be fearsome. The graduating seniors wish them the best of luck!

Boys finish first

Both teams have an outstanding season.

"We skied strong and hard to have a very successful season."

Rob Hazel

Slaloming across Prospect Hill this winter could be seen one of Waltham High's little-recognized but highly successful teams: the ski team. Coach Vaughan oversaw the practices of the boys' and the girls' teams, both of which sent seniors to race in the State Championships.

The girls' team which included senior members Dina Pallone (captain), Sheryl Guarini, Christine Crowe, and Carolann Guadagnino, ended a great season by finishing fourth in Division 1. Not only did all four senior girls contribute in all four races, but outstanding showings were made particularly by Chris Crowe and Dina, this year's star racer, who placed 17th in the State Championships.

The boys had an even more impressive season, finishing first in Division 1 this year! Two of the highest-placing seniors were co-captains Rob Hazel coming off a broken foot to end up finishing third and fifth in two races, and Bill Corcoran, the star of the boys' season, who placed second, fifth, and eighth in three races. Both boys went to the States, along with Matt Lasker, Bob LeLievre, Eric Weston and junior Tom Burke, who finished all four races in the top 20. Matt placed 11th, 19th, 22nd, and 9th respectively, while Bob pulled off 9th, 14th, and 18th places. Other seniors who ensured the success were Chuck Harris, Randy Doiron, and Dave Tobin. Of this highly accomplished team of skiers captain Rob Hazel said "We skied strong and hard to have a very successful season."

This more than successful season has surely cleared the path for more success in future years. Congratulations to both the boys' and girls' teams, and good luck to Waltham High's future skiers!

Practice payed off

Seniors serve as good role models

> "One of the major goals of the swim team this year, was to continue to keep the strong bond of friendship and unity that has kept the swim team a closely-knit group of fit women athletes."
> Ms. Liz Poisson

"One of the major goals of the swim team this year," stated assistant coach Ms. Liz Poisson, "was to continue to keep the strong bond of friendship and unity that has kept the swim team a closely-knit group of fit women athletes." With ease the team accomplished this, and much more.

In practice and in the meets, what the girls were striving for was personal bests to improve their times or scores in specific events. To do this, they worked on endurance, new dives, turns, and a general streamlining of style. The long practices in the Brandeis pool payed off, as every member of the team shaved off a few seconds or even minutes from their times each time they swam in an event.

The swim team's seniors served as outstanding role models for the younger swimmers, exemplifying sportmanship in their concentration and dedication. Ann Marie Mazzocchi, the team's captain, pushed herself to the limit and became a powerful swimmer as well as the team's leader. Coach Poisson said of senior Debbie D'Amore simply that she personified "dedication, commitment, and style." Chris Crowe was the much-needed comic relief for the squad, while Missy Alarie was the helper, always to be depended on by the rest of the team. Finally, Krissy Bankosky, the diver for the Hawks, was a true athlete who broadened her repetoire and improved her techniques throughout the season while performing fearlessly at meets.

These seasoned athletes trained hard, swam long distances, sprinted like lightning, and ended their sessions at Brandeis happy and proud that they had been a part of the team.

Matmen show strength

A sub-par record, but a very fulfilling season.

> "Seeing our team place fourth in the Sectionals was my biggest thrill of the year."
> Jorge Orta

Although this year's wrestling team did not live up to its own expectations, individual seniors made this year a memorable one. M.V.P. tri-captain Carl Cincotta topped the Suburban League at 140 lbs., losing only twice in seventeen matches. Heavyweight tri-captain Chris Gelinas duplicated Carl's success, and he was also honored as the team's "Most Improved" grappler. The other tri-captain, "Outstanding Wrestler" Jorge Orta, trimmed down to 169 lbs. and ended up third best in the league. Kudos also go to senior Steve Cotoni, wrestling in the very competitive 187 lb. class. This three-year varsity wrestler "toughed out" an 11-5 record and was honored with the team's "Senior Recognition" award.

Despite his personal success, tri-captain Orta modestly cites "seeing our team place fourth in the Sectionals" as his biggest thrill of the year. He also regrets the loss of senior John Maione to illness. "He was a tough luck kid," says Orta. "He would have been one of our best. And don't forget Steve Tulimieri. He was a first-year wrestler, but one of our hardest workers. He really came into his own by the end of the year."

Darin Basile, Jim DeVincent, and Ron Harris were other seniors blostering this year's squad. All in all, the senior matmen had a sub-par record, but a very fulfilling season.

A title contender

"Golf, more than a sport...a way of life."

> "All the members had saved their best effort for the match and snatched victory away from the Boxers on the last hole."
> Mark DePass

This year the Waltham High Golf Team finished the fall season with a 10-2-2 record in the competitive Suburban League one of the most powerful and talented in the state. In doing so, Waltham established itself as a title contender for now and in the years to come.

The resurgence of the golf program at the W.H.S. is due for the most part to coach Joe Connelly. When taking over the reigns in 1984, the coach inherited a team with a lack of participants and spirit. However, he quickly changed that around. This fall there were three times as many players vying for spots on the roster than when he started. There was also a positive atmosphere of success surrounding the team. Mr. Connelly has led the "Hawk 6" to 28 wins in the last three seasons, and the focus is on the future and continuing the winning ways.

This year's squad was led by four returning starters, playing in their third year of varsity action. Seniors Mark DePass, Steve McCue, and Chris Buckley along with junior Brian Black used experience to their advantage in every match. Senior Harry Curtis, junior Doug Keefe, and sophomore Frank Bibbo made contributions to several of the Hawk wins.

The team wound up in third place in the Suburban League. The Hawks were undefeated in home play this year going 6-0-1 at Weston Country Club. The final victory of the season was the highlight for both the coach and the players. In the last match, played at Weston, Waltham beat previously undefeated and eventual champion Brockton. "All the members had saved their best effort for the match and snatched the victory away from the Boxers on the last hole," said captain Mark DePass.

1986 was a banner year for the Hawks, and it appears to be just the tip of the iceberg. The golf team has more and more people believing, "Golf, more than a sport... a way of life."

We are the Champions

The girls dominate the Suburban League.

> "The relay was the key to capturing the League Title."
> Lisa Giovanetti

During the 1986-'87 season, a phenomenon occured on the Waltham High sports scene. This phenomenon was known as the Girls Indoor Track Team, and its undefeated (6-0) record not only dominated the Suburban League, but also represented the best in the League's history.

The road to victory, however, was not as smooth as one might gather from this statistic. Instead of chewing up and spitting out all opponents, the girls of the indoor track team faced many close meets which were won in the very last event, the relay. According to senior runner, Lisa Giovanetti, "The relay was the key to capturing the League title." Among the matches decided by this team event were a turning point win aganist Cambridge, and the Suburban League Championship aganist an unbeaten Brockton squad. In this final clash, the girls used their relay strength to come away with a very close 45-42 victory and gain sweet revenge on the scourge of Waltham High's athletic department.

Behind the team's solid effort were several notable individual accomplishments. At the Division I State Championships, senior Judith Linnehan took fourth place in the mile run while her classmate Lisa Giovanetti came in fifth in the two mile. Meanwhile, the team superlative, Precious Hill, outraced all of her competitors in the 1000 yard run, and then repeated her performance in this event by taking first place at the Mass All-State Finals. Also appearing at the competition was Judith, who placed fifth in the mile. Other unsung heroines who shined at the Suburban Championship Meet were Kim Savage (2nd in the hurdles), Maureen "Mo Flo" Florio (4th in the 50 yard run), Julie Clarke (4th in the 300 yard run), and freshman Jodi Lupo (5th in the 1000 yard run).

Along with their fellow teammates, these girls comprised a "Track Force." By going undefeated and winning the League title from none other than Brockton High, they have left an impressive and demanding legacy to be lived up to by Precious and a group of promising underclassmen.

A great finish

Undefeated in last seven games to qualify

> "We came together and did what no one thought we could do - get into the State Tournament."
> Tom LeBlanc

Not many people believed that this year's varsity hockey team could go as far as it did, especially after the season's slow start. However, as senior co-captain Tom LeBlanc put it, "We came together and did what no one thought we could do - get into the State Tournament."

The whole season, including the tournament, was marked by both success and disappointments, but Tom thinks that the highest point was "beating Brockton, because they are our number one rival. We beat them at home in front of our own fans." This game was one of the last seven consecutive wins, including the crucial one vs. North Quincy, that qualified the Hawks for the State Tournament.

The tournament was tough, and eventually ended in a heart breaking loss for Waltham, as they played against an outstanding Walpole team.

This year's individual icemen, notably the seniors contributed so much to the whole squad that it would've been impossible to have a losing team in '86-'87. Tom LeBlanc was not only a leader on and off the ice, he also became a Suburban League All-Star. Leading the Hawks in goals with 10 for the season was Eric Melanson, who scored Waltham's only goal in the tourney game. Scoring the first hat trick of the season at the very first Suburban League game was Dom Restagno, while Mark Hebert helped out with his ability as a penalty killer. Senior co-captain Tim Regan's aggressiveness usually resulted in a goal for the Hawks, and Frank Hache was the team's dependable sharp-shooter. Other great senior performances were contributed by Danny LeLievre and John Kavey, while junior Bryan LaFort was the hottest goalie in the Suburban League, according to team managers Michelle Mabardy and Crissy Guillette.

With amazing underclassmen coming back to anchor the Hawks such as juniors Derek Cormier ('87-'88 Co-Captain), Mike Bolio, Roland Henri, and sophomore Tony St.Cyr to name a few, next year's crew of skaters should continue the excellence established by this year's Hawks.

Finally a win

Determination and spirit are trademarks

> "This season was the best we had in several years"
> Alan Penniman

"This season was the best we have had in several years" said senior captain Al Penniman when thinking of the boys' cross-country season. In the four years that Al has been on the track team, the squad had not won a meet. The 1986 season changed that when the boys finally chalked up an official win, beating a tough Quincy team on their track. The win was particularly impressive for the team, because, as Al stated, with "such a small team compared to other teams in the league, it makes it difficult to score a win." With the Hawks' determination and spirit, the size factor was overcome.

Although captain Al Penniman was the only senior on the cross-country team, other outstanding underclassmen members will return to score more wins. Among them will be sophomore Scott Harrington, whom Al called the team's most valuable player. Scott placed in the top three in each of the dual meets and fourth in the Suburban League meet.

This year's win against Quincy should start the ball rolling for the Hawks and lead to many more wins next year and in future years.

This year the girls' team had an outstanding season as they went undefeated and won the Suburban League Championship. The girls were led by seniors: Judy Linnehan, Lisa Giovanetti, Janet MacInnis, and junior Precious Hill. The girls were never seriously challenged in a meet all season. The girls also proved to be very strong in the Division 1 meet. With a surplus of talent returning Coach Joe Tranchita can look forward to another outstanding season.

A spirited team

Hard work and dedication are trademarks

> "We worked hard at the beginning of the season. We were getting beaten badly but we improved. The second half of the season we came closer to winning."
> Joanna Casey

A lack of returning varsity caused this year's girls' basketball team to experience a rebuilding season, but one not without its successes.

Returning varsity players seniors Joanna Casey and Janet Cloherty, junior Laura Daley, and sophomores, Lynne Dempsey and Colleen Lyons anchored the team, working hard to provide an example of dedication to the rest of the hard-working squad. "We worked hard, "said senior Joanna Casey, "at the beginning of the season we were getting beaten badly but we improved. The second half of the season we came closer to winning." Of course what was really importatnt was that "we did have fun and had plenty of spirit, even though we only won two games."

One of the two games was most vital as an indication of the future success of the fledgling team. Waltham's last game was against intimidating North Quincy, who was ranked third in the league. In typical David and Goliath fashion, the Hawks "played well and controlled the entire game for the first time, "which led the squad onto a well-deserved victory.

The individuals on this dedicated team showed tremendous effort and a true desire to improve. In addition to the returning five players, talent was shown by seniors Shoushan Kouyoumdjian, juniors Maureen Carey and Janine Driver, and sophomores Tara Smolinsky, Brenda Florio, Kerry Driver, and Jennifer Jordan. The high scorer of the season was Joanna Casey with 125 points, and tied for second were Janet Cloherty and Lynne Dempsey, with 113 points each. In addition, Lynne was winner of the Most Valuable Player trophy.

That win over North Quincy, and the unbeatable Hawk spirit, will surely lead the girls onto many successful future seasons.

A positive note

Finish season with two consecutive victories

> "All we need to challenge Brookline and Newton North (in league competition) is better numbers."
> Don Prohovich

Although this year's outdoor tracksters did not enjoy a winning season, the squad finished up on a positive note, winning their last two meets. North Quincy fell by a 69-53 margin and, five days later, Quincy was trounced 75-61.

Junior Carmelo Cinqueonce was the top point-getter, amassing a total of 39. His most memorable performance was taking second place in the discus in the League Meet. Sophomore Mike Quinn raced for 30 points, and fellow soph Scott Harrington, a miler, totaled a similar amount and also took second place in the Agawam High School Mile competition (for ages 13-15).

Other stars included freshmen Seth Harris, who set school freshmen records in the discus and javelin, and Kevin Parent, one of the league's premier underclass milers; soph Andy LeBlanc, who boasted the team's second highest point total; and juniors Eric Blackwelder, the team's fifth best point getter, and Mike Arena, an outstanding long jumper.

Seniors, though under represented on the team, made a significant contribution to the program. The squad will miss graduates Bill Burgess, Steve Cotoni, Jim Crowley, Chris Gelinas, and Al Penniman.

Next year's prospects are considered excellent, as the team will boast of "legitimate state-level performers," according to Athletic Director Donald Prohovich. "All we need to challenge Brookline and Newton North (in league competition) is better numbers," insists Prohovich, and our talented Hawk returnees couldn't agree more!

A major effort

A small squad gives a giant effort

"For a team of ten guys, we did much better than anyone expected us to. Hard work was the key to the season."

Dave Gibbs

For a small team with very few experienced swimmers and no divers at the start of the season, the Waltham boys' swim team performed remarkably well this year, establishing and breaking many personal records. As senior captain Dave Gibbs said, "For a team of ten guys, we did much better than anyone expected us to. Hard work was the key to this season!"

The start of the season looked bleak, as the team was notably short on divers and "specialty stroke" swimmers for events such as the butterfly. However, new coach Phil Richmond whipped the team into shape at the Brandeis pool.

Every swimmer showed marked improvement by the time the team swam their first meet against Brookline. After many close races, Waltham won the meet by more than 20 points, giving the boys renewed confidence.

The team continued to work hard and accomplished some very difficult goals. After the last meet of the season (which ended 2-6 for the Hawks), was the Suburban League Championships, "the biggest and the best thing that happened this year" said Dave. Dave placed 4th in the 100 free and 5th in the 200 free at Suburbans, while junior Mike Murphy swam the 100 breast stroke in an impressive 1:17. Near the end of the meet, Waltham was tied 50-50 with rival Quincy, but the Hawks won the last relay to pull ahead of Quincy and take fifth in the meet.

The dedicated individuals were what made it happen for the swim team this year. Dave led a crew of hardworking underclassmen that included talented juniors Mike Murphy, Josh Peterson, and Mark Chlapowski, and sophomores Dan Steinberg, Jeff Miele, and Tom Portentoso among others. Coach Richmond and next year's captain, Mike Murphy, will have a lot of talent and experience to work with!

Our first year

Hard work always gets results

> "If you want to be good at something, you've got to work. Maybe our record didn't show success, but I think we were a really strong team by the end of the season."
> Mike Rossi

A new varsity team graced the gym of Waltham High this spring --the boys' volleyball team, comprised of some of the finest athletic talent Waltham can offer. While the squad did not come up with a winning season, the effort shown by the boys resulted in great improvement and promise for seasons to come.

The team's record of 3 wins 15 losses in no way illustrates the hard work that was put into the sport that was new to almost every team member and new coach Scott Thompson. As senior player Mike Rossi said, "If you want to be good at something, you've got to work. Maybe our record didn't show success, but I think we were a really strong team by the end of the season." The three wins, over Quincy, North Quincy and Newton South, were impressive for such a small inexperienced team. In the Suburban League tournament, the Hawks came very close to another win, over tough Newton North. The match went to three games, but Waltham lost a heartbreaker to the more experienced team by a very narrow margin.

The individuals who played for Waltham in its first year of varsity volleyball were varied in their talents. Lone senior Mike Rossi is an all-around talented athlete who filled a setter's position on the court, although he also provided a strong serve and defense. Junior co-captain Dan Lynnworth and junior Dana DiGiovine play for the highly competitive Metro team in the Bay State Games, which is often called the training grounds for the Olympics. Dan will be a starting hitter on the team although he was an outstanding setter for Waltham. Junior Mike Murphy, also a co-captain, brought his speed and reliability from the swimming pool onto the volleyball court and provided both offense and defense.

Since Dan, Dana, Mike, and the rest of the outstanding underclassmen on the team have established such a strong base of teamsmanship and dedication, it's certain that the boys' volleyball program will be a strong one.

Year long champions

Girls finish year with 17-1 overall record

"Thanks Coach Tranchita its been a great year.
The Seniors

Once again, a Waltham track team, this time girls' spring track, has blown away all opposition, with the numbers and the achievements to prove it.

The regular season ended as usual with a winning record, 5-1, to give the girls an overall record for the year of 17-1. The girls dominated the Suburban League from September to June winning the championship all three seasons.

The girls were led by a large contingent of seniors. Lisa Giovanetti and Janet MacInnis competed in the mile and 2 mile race, Kim "Sav" Savage was a participant in the discus and the javelin, Ann Marie Mazzocchi hurled the discus, Julie Clarke competed in the 220, the 440, and the relay, Judith Linnehan in the 880, the mile, and the 2 mile, Maureen Florio ran in the 440 relay, Kara Holmquist in the hurdles, and Jean Demeo in the 440.

The team will miss these seniors, but they have a lot of talent returning for Coach Tranchita. The seniors summed up the year with these words, "Thanks Coach Tranchita its been a great year."

Lots of talent

Watch out next year - The Hawks live

> "Although we had a losing season, we learned a lot."
> Rich LeBlanc

It is impossible to describe a group like Waltham's 1987 Lacrosse Team in terms of just number of wins and number of losses. In spite of their under .500 record, this year's squad was still home to a great deal of talent and hard workers.

Tri-captains John Kavey, Steven Wright, and Rich LeBlanc provided most of the team's offensive game. While John was the key to the offense in setting up goal opportunities, all-round hustle was supplied by Steven, who was the recipient of the team's "110% Award." In addition to this, Rich, the group's leading scorer, finished fourth among the Division Two South Teams in that department, with a grand total of 58 points. This impressive number earned him All Star placement for his second straight year. These three were given extra help by the flashy play of Mark Russo.

The defensive end of the field was also guarded well. Chris Gelinas used his size, speed, and experience to keep the ball as far as possible from the net. If it got past him, though, then, more often than not, it was handled by the team's superior goalie, Mark Davy.

In summing up his team's year, Rich LeBlanc stated that "Although we had a losing season, we learned a lot." He applied this not only to the seniors, but also to the underclassmen, who, as a result of their '87 experiences, will hopefully raise Waltham High Lacrosse to new heights in '88.

A competitive year

Boys lose six matches by 3-2 scores

> "I look forward to them being outstanding players in the future."
> John Graceffa

The boys' tennis team ended their season with a 1 win 11 losses record. The record was certainly not indicative of the season they had. The team lost six matches by 3-2 scores, four of these matches ended in tie-breakers. The team was a very young team and included a sophomore at number 1 single, a freshman at number 3 singles, 2 sophomores at number 1 doubles, and 2 juniors at number 2 doubles. The most consistent performers were John and Robert Benson at the number 1 doubles. They gave every indication that they would be the best doubles team in the league next year.

This year also saw the end of the coaching reign of John Graceffa. In July Mr. Graceffa took over the duties as Principal of Waltham High School. We are sure he will follow this team very closely next year and left with this comment, "I look forward to them being outstanding players in the future."

A close call

An oustanding season by several players

> "Teamwork was the key to our season."
> Janet Cloherty

Waltham High's 1987 Girls' Softball team had a tough act to follow under equally tough circumstances.

Tough Act: The 1986 team placed second in the Suburban League (10-6) and qualified for the State Tournament.

Tough Circumstances: The core of the 1986 team graduated in 1986.

Despite these obstacles, the girls came out of the season with a winning record (10-8) and managed to finish fourth in the league. How did they do it? According to starting pitcher and co-captain Janet Cloherty, "Teamwork was the key to our season."

This agrees quite well with the wide spread of skill seen on this team over the course of the '87 season. While Janet handled most of the mound duties, ending the year at 7-4 and earning a place with the second team Suburban League All Stars, the plate was dominated by Joanna Casey, who batted a team high .469 and also made the All Star Team. Joining them both on that select squad was super-steady first baseman and co-captain Dina Pallone, who also contributed a powerful bat to the lineup.

Rounding out the senior portion of the team were hard hitting DH Maureen Keating, and "golden glove" outfielder Karen Courtney.

Of course, the year's talent was not confined merely to the seniors. The Suburban League All Stars also included junior Cheryl Keane and sophomore Lynne Dempsey. Another sophomore, Colleen Lyons showed great promise at bat (.353 avg.), while junior Vicki Vallerand pitched for two wins in her two premier starts. With all of this, Coach Joe Salvo will almost certainly have yet another successful season in '88.

We showed everyone.

An all around effort for the Hawks.

"We surprised everyone but ourselves. We knew we were capable of being successful."

Mark DePass

Senior Mark DePass said of the 1987 baseball team, "we surprised everyone but ourselves. We knew we were capable of being successful." That capability was turned into reality, as the team went 15-4 in the regular season and was ranked second in the Suburban League and third in the state only three weeks into the season. Their only disappointment came in the tournament when they were beaten on a fluke by a low-ranked team.

Although the list of victories for the Hawks goes on and on, the one that tri-captain DePass remembers best is the win over Brockton on their field, the first such win in eight years. This proved that "we were a power to be reckoned with said Depass.

The success of the team, as always, is the result of the dedicated and talented individuals who worked together to take the team to the top. Tri-captain seniors DePass, Mike Ryan, and Billy Chiasson were all amazing athletes who held the team together defensively along with junior Zenith Marimon. Offensively, the multi-talented Jerome Fuller was a power, and the pitching of Jr. Joe Florio and Sophomore Randy Johnson couldn't be beat. All of these players were honored by their team with various awards, including M.V.P. DePass, and co-Golden Gloves Mike Ryan and Bill Chiasson. In addition, DePass, Florio, Johnson, Fuller, and Marimon were all chosen as All-Suburbans.

After a very successful season (to say the least), DePass said it all; "Waltham baseball has been extremely successful for many years. We attribute this to the coaches and the excellent junior leagues throughout the city. The three seniors are extremely proud to have played for Waltham and are very sad that their four years of baseball have ended. We would like to wish next year's team the best of luck. We know they have awesome potential and that they'll be successful."

Senior Prom

Perhaps the most eagerly-awaited Senior activity is the glamorous and exciting Senior Prom. This year, the evening of June 26th arrived clear and warm--perfect for the night of romance ahead at the Royal Plaza in Marlborough. After having our pictures taken thousands of times at home, we headed off in our limos and cars, arriving just in time to have our pictures taken again in front of a picturesque fountain in the lobby of the hotel. No one minded all of these flashes going off again and again--after all, how many times will we look this good in our lives? The attire displayed by our class was as varied as the class itself. Some girls wore long, fancy gowns reminiscent of the Old South, while others chose glamorous tea lengths. The gentlemen all looked handsome, whether in tails or the traditional shorter tuxes.

We ate dinner, too excited to even notice the delicious roast beef. After dinner, we danced until midnight on the two dance floors of the ballroom, and applauded our Prom Attendants Lisa Noke and Tracey Mucci, and Prom Queen Amy DeGiso, as they danced with their dates to our theme song, "Never Say Goodbye."

Afterwards, we went out to friends' houses, to the Cape, or maybe just home to get some sleep, with only souvenier glasses, photographs, and corsages to remind us of the magical night we had experienced.

Graduation

Sunday, May 31st of 1987 marked not only our graduation from Waltham High School, but also a departure from the only lifestyle that we had ever known up to that point. For over twelve years, school had been a central part of our lives. We worked there, ate there, and socialized there for six hours per day, 180 days per year. After Sunday, though, it was all over. One might have expected Porky Pig to step up to the podium during the ceremony just to tell us "That's all folks."

The actual graduation ceremony went off quite well considering the 90 degree temperatures which all present that day at Leary Field were subjected to. Short speeches were stressed by most who appeared on the stage; among them being hostess Nancy Steinberg, Mayor William Stanley, Superintendant of Schools John J. Dadonna, senior housemaster Norm MacDonald, Class President Andy Kasper and Vocational Class President Paul Moon. The Class Poem was read by its author, Melissa Juliano, and the Class Gift to the school, a new podium, was presented by Student Council President Chris Buckley and National Honor Society President Janet Cloherty.

Finally, as each of our names were called to step up to the platform and receive our diplomas, we crossed over a kind of border into a new and different stage of our lives. While, in the coming years, we may find it difficult to bring all of our old friends and acquaintances with us over that border, the memories will always remain of the time when the foundations of our individual futures were set down.

Turn That Page

Our lives are like a book you read,
from one end to another,
A book you share with all your friends,
your sister and your brother.
We start from the beginning and with each page we turn,
We find it more confusing with more and more to learn.

Finished with part one are we,
with so much yet to come.
We must stay to just read on;
No! wait: don't turn and run!
With the toss of a tassel, a new day's begun;
we open up book two,
To find it more confusing
with everything so new.
We must remember all that happened and all that we read.
Remember all the characters,
and everything they've said.
We must turn that page and realize,
we're out now on our own,
With only ourselves to guide us,
Ourselves! we're all alone.

So keep on reading, read till the end.
this book is not yet done.
There's still so much to read about:
work,college, and all that fun.
So let's look toward the future now,
the beginning of the rest of our days.
The future is ours, it's ours to have,
Come on.....Let's turn that page.

Senior Dinner

Friends, family, and food came together once again on the night of Monday, May 18th as the second annual Senior Dinner was held in the good ol' Waltham High cafeteria.

Upon first entering the beautifully decorated cafe, certain guests may have been slightly disoriented, thinking themselves to have been at one of those "Hollywood Celebrity Roasts." Of course the lack of a celebrity and the substitution of chicken breast for a roast allowed them to quickly regain their senses. Nevertheless, the evening proved to be an extremely enjoyable blend of socializing and reminiscing in what for many would be the last great gathering of the Class of '87.

The chief event of the Senior Dinner, of course, was "the dinner." For those of us who spent a great portion of our year at McDonald's and/or Burger King, the mere fact that the food was brought to us was quite impressive in itself. Once we got over this initial shock, eating it proved to be no disappointment either. After chowing down on bread, salad, ziti, more ziti, chicken, and ice cream, all present were quite content to sit back and take in the night's ceremonies.

These were started off with a few selections by our friendly neighborhood Show Choir who, as usual, added a touch of class to the affair. Other bits of entertainment included the Class Prophesy as read by Karen Burke, and teacher imitations courtesy of Karen Burke (the same one), Chris Buckley, Matt Gallagher, and Jon Williams.

Throughout this time, awards were being distributed to students by various departments and organizations. Notable among these were the Outstanding Athlete Awards which were presented to football/wrestling/lacrosse star Chris Gelinas and mega-runner Judith Linnehan. Meanwhile, the newly established "Bazarian/Sliney Award" for involvement in the Student Council was taken home by co-winners Chris Buckley and Kara Holmquist. The Delaney Awards for work on the Yearbook Committee were also given at this time to co-editor Holly Richardson, and "Most Valuable Staffer" Lisa Noke.

By the end of the presentations, everyone had digested their dinner and was ready to head home. Despite this, the number of them who remained long afterwards, saying "goodbye" to the faculty and other acquaintances of the last four years gave a clue as to the emotional side of the evening.

Awards Night

Two nights after the Prom, the senior class gathered for a very different reason--Scholarship and Awards Night at the high school. This is a special night set aside every year to honor the outstanding members of the senior class with various awards including all of the local scholarships we had applied for so long ago. After a brief address by Mr. Regan, the presentation of awards got underway.

First, School Committee Keys were handed out to 22 students who had earned at least 50% A's and B's for final marks throughout high school. Next, the hundreds of other scholarships and awards were presented by Mr. Regan, Mr. MacDonald, and Miss Nolan. Although well over 100 students received honors, some of the big winners that night were Janet Cloherty, receiving the Bentley/Waltham four year, full tuition scholarship among many other honors, Kelly Walsh and Nancy Steinberg, who each received a four year, full tuition scholarship to Brandeis, Matt Pecci, who received the Grover Cronin Four Year Renewable Scolarship, and Chin-Mei Yu, the runner-up for the Grover Cronin Scholarship. The Vocational High also gave out awards to their outstanding students, among them Goeffrey Bourque, Dean Duguay, Rob Labossiere, and Roy Larade.

After the students' awards, presentations were made by the Yearbook Staff. Guidance Counselor Mr. Alan Jacobson was awarded Educator of the Year, and retiring Principal Mr. John J. Regan was honored with a plaque of thanks. The dedication of the 1987 Mirror was made by Editor-in-Chief Stephanie Turner and Editor Holly Richardson. The deserving recipients this year were Yearbook Advisor Mr. James McDonnell and photographer Terry Bleiler.

Congratulations and good luck to all the hard-working scholarship and award winners of the Class of 1987.

Air Conditioning

The Air Conditioning Department is under the direction of Mr. Irving Kardon and Mr. Edward Lannon. Here the students learn to install and maintain air conditioning system.

Careers in air conditioning can be divided into four main fields: (1) designing, (2) manufacturing, (3) selling, and (4) installing and servicing. College educated engineers research and design air conditioning systems. Skilled machinists, toolmakers, cabinetmakers, and similar craftworkers help manufacture air conditioners. Technical training, such as a degree in engineering, is often essential for positions in the selling and executive branches of air conditioning. Specially trained technicians, and operating and service engineers, install and maintain air conditioners.

Auto Body

The Auto Body Department is under the direction of Mr. Michael Hudson and Mr. Salvatore Scimemi. The students in this shop will receive complete training in the craft, using the various machines, welding equipment, and other tools that the craftsman uses in restoring damaged vehicles.

In the Auto Body area, students will find a fully equipped shop with modern equipment available. Practical learning takes place in the shop using electronic diagnostic equipment, alignment equipment, spray booths, hydraulic lifts, hand tools, arc and gas welding equipment, and many other such tools and specialized equipment.

Auto Body repairmen are skilled metal craftsmen who repair all types of vehicles, but primarily automobiles and small trucks. After four years in this department the student is ready for the work force.

Auto Mechanics

There are many new ideas in machines being used in the automotive world today. Students must be taught in addition to things like cooling systems, subjects like ignition systems, and transmissions, new subjects like emission control, modern suspension systems and new engine models.

In the years to come mechanics must become more specialized and more skillful in their profession. They must always be on top of what's going on in their changing field and be able to change with it.

The automotive mechanic is no longer just a "grease monkey". He is just as skilled as anyone in another trade.

All phases of the automotive mechanics trade are taught with emphasis on theory combined with shop activities by Mr. Alexander Kapamagian.

Carpentry

The Carpentry Department teaches the uses of hand tools and introduces the safe use of machines. A series of projects are undertaken to develop skill that will assist the student to make a realistic choice of life's work.

The many fields available to an accomplished carpenter are the layout, fabrication, and assembling of dwellings and shelters. Cabinet making, remodeling and renovating furniture.

Cabinet making and mill work constitutes the majority of the work experienced performed by the students. The Carpentry Department is under the direction of Mr. Michael Delaney and Mr. John Brennan.

Drafting

Drafting can be viewed as a graphical engineering language whose function is the transfer and storage of design intent. It is the engineer's medium of communication with those people responsible for the manufacture, operation, and repair of the finished product. A drafter receives design data from the engineer or designer and converts this data into the final engineering drawing. This data may be in the form of a sketch, a page of numerical data, or merely a memo describing the desired decisions such as the selection of standard processes, and the determination of materials and tolerances.

Among his other responsibilities are intelligent control of the design detailing to assure productability of the item and the production of the finished engineering drawing which conforms to the contractual requirements of the customer. The competent drafter, with a sincere interest in his work, can learn many of the basic principles of design engineering and manufacturing of all types of products.

Electronics

The electronics industry continues to expand, offering more job opportunities to technicians. Solid state circuitry development has led to greatly improved liability, longer life, and a considerable reduction in size.

The purpose of this course is to train students for job entry into the electronics field, such as electronic tester, and electronic technician, in areas of manufacturing, engineering, installation, and maintenance. An additional purpose of the course is to provide a firm base for additional training in school and industry.

Areas covered in shop and class include essentials of AC and DC, component characteristics, basic electronic circuits, and systems, test equipment, and digital computer fundamentals. Work in the shop includes construction, assembly, testing, and trouble shooting, with greatest emphasis on the testing of components, circuits and systems.

Machine

One of the continuing problems of the precision machinery industry has been the acute shortage of properly trained skill machinists. There are many reasons for this shortage, but the one that is most outstanding is the lack of training of sufficient apprentices by the industry. Therefore, it is the responsibility of the Machine Shop Department to train students so that they will be able to begin apprenticeship training in preparation for the more advanced phases of the machinist trade.

The students learn to set up and run the newest and most advanced tools in the industry. These include lathes, drill presses, radial drills, milling machine, horizontal and surface grinders. Bench work, lay out and inspection is also taught.

The classroom work will encompass the mathematics and the scientific principles involved in the operations performed. Such skills as how to make and read drawings, inspection techniques, theory and programming of numerical control machines, and the processes of heat treating the different kinds of metals are all a part of the training one receives in becoming a machinist.

Welding

Almost every industry has some work for welding workers. Graduates of the department are capable of going into almost any field.

In the shop much time is spent on seams, containers, and soldering in the beginning. Those who have mastered the essentials advance to rivets, duct work, flashing, tees, fireproofing, fender work, ventilators, collectors, arc and gas welding, and innumerable other phases of the welding trade.

In the classroom, the same course is covered with specific references to math, drawing, and science. The science course deals with forced air heating systems, heating and ventilating systems, and power and exhaust systems.

It is fairly easy with a diploma in welding to find employment in any of the several branches of the trade, such as construction and roofing, auto body repair, ventilation, plumbing and heating, aviation, or general welding work.

Printing

The Printing Department course encompasses two of the major printing methods, Offset and Letterpress, with the emphasis being placed on Offset. Within the curriculum itself, the students are trained in the major areas of planning, composition, copy preparation, process camera, platemaking, presswork and bindery.

In planning, students are taught the steps necessary in the initial preparation that is involved in production planning of printed material. Experience in composition include makeup and selection of type faces, pasteup, camerawork, stripping and making of the press plate. In the press room, students learn maintenance and operation of small offset duplicators, platen presses, large sheet fed offset press in small web rollfed presswork at the advanced level. The graduate of the program will have a variety of skills necessary to enter many areas within the ever expanding printing field.

The conclusion of this academic year will mark not only the departure of the class of 1987, but also that of one of Waltham High's greatest assets... Mr. John J. Regan.

For over two decades, Mr. Regan has been an integral part of our school. After serving for nine years as an extremely successful mathematics teacher here, his outstanding academic and personal talents enabled him to meet with equal prosperity in his six-year role as a housemaster.

For the past seven years, however, students have known Mr. Regan best as Waltham High's principal. In this office, his skills as an administrator, an educator, and, above all, a communicator were able to display their full potentials. His desire for a more unified high school led him to enhance the exchange of ideas between administration and faculty, and, as a result, between administration and students. In addition, Mr. Regan's "open door" office policy made "talking with the principal" a welcome reality.

This, augmented by a strict work ethic and a reputation for complete honesty, has made Mr. Regan one of Waltham High's most respected and admired figures. These same traits will also make him one of Waltham High's most missed figures when he leaves us this summer; and it is for this reason we give special recognition, along with our sincerest wishes of good luck, to this man who has given so much of himself.

This year, the yearbook staff is delighted to honor an outstanding educator whose sensitivity, insight, and tireless concern have benefited thousands of Waltham High students.

School is not merely a building or a roomfull of people. School is a human enterprise, based on mutual respect, inspiration, and the tradition of one generation being prepared to assume the responsibilites of the previous one.

Thus, the quality of one's education depends on the quality of one's educators. We cannot expect excellence in the former without being able to count on excellence in the latter.

Speaking for so many whose school lives were enriched by his wisdom, his caring, and his vigorous efforts on our behalf, we are proud to acknowledge this excellent educator.

Our honoree is a guidance counselor whose guidance and counsel have enhanced the quality of our school lives and whose wisdom, understanding, and deep concern have influenced our futures.

With the highest sense of gratitude and regard, we are proud to recognize, Mr. Alan Jacobson, as an outstanding educator of the year.

If, upon leaving high school, a graduating senior can look back on a particular teacher and see instead a friend, then something very unusual has happened. Then again, "unusual" is precisely the word which describes Mr. Edward Matthews best. In both his speech classes and the T.V. studio, "Mr. Ed's" unorthodox teaching style and attitude have helped myself and many others not only to learn, but also to pursue the full potential of our personalities.

What makes him a friend, though, is his willingness to talk with his students as an equal. In four years of dealing with Mr. Matthews, I cannot remember a moment in which he seemed condescending or apathetic towards me. Despite this, whenever anyone from the T.V. studio would thank him for some achievement or reward in which his advice and help played a role, his response would always be "You earned it...no one else."

Well Mr. Matthews, in that you were wrong. Since I am sure that none of us are reading this with you right now, this is probably the ideal opportunity to say "thanks" from all of us for being a great friend.

DEDICATED TO THE CLASS OF 1987

Your Class of 1987
Soon will be leaving Waltham High
And fondly, and somewhat sadly,
You'll bid high school days, goodbye.

You'll take with you many memories
Of the happy years you shared,
With friends, and students, and teachers
While for the future, you prepared.

That some future now awaits you
As graduation nears;
You'll proudly accept the challenge
But you'll have your doubts and fears.

Take courage, you who graduate
You have so much to give;
You'll be the ones, who'll find the road
To a better way we live.

Your path may be to college
Or to busy industry;
Whatever you have chosen,
Do it faithfully.

Farewell, Class of 1987
Our hopes all go with you;
We all take pride and wish you well,
In everything you do.

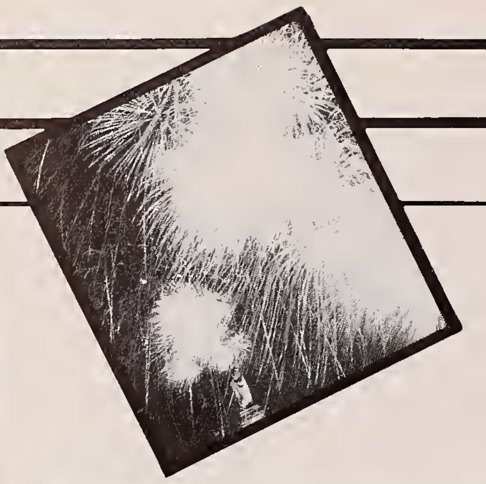
The Year In Review



We live in a weird world. It always was weird. It always will be weird. The year which the Class of '87 spent as seniors, however, went beyond weird. It was...well...WEIRD.

The word of the year? Scandal. Around November of 1986 it was discovered that for over twelve months the U.S. had been engaged in super-secret arms dealings with its brand new buddy, Iran. At first, the public was told that this was done in order to get Iranian help in freeing American hostages in Lebanon. That seemed logical since, at about the same time, hostage David Jacobsen was freed from 17 months of captivity. Shortly later, though, certain people were caught with their pants down when the media reported that funds from the Iran arms dealings had been illegally diverted to those crazy Contra "freedom fighters" from down in Nicaragua. O.K., now the question was who knew what. While Ron Reagan initially claimed that he "didn't remember" whether he was informed or not, Lt. Col. Oliver North of the Marines emerged as the central figure. Then, before anyone knew what was going on, things got far too complicated for anyone to know what was going on. North's secretary, Fawn Hall, told of shredded and altered documents, Richard Secord told of Swiss Bank accounts and insurance policies, and other people are still telling of other things even as this article goes to print. Weird.

Stark Questions

Iran's neighbor/enemy, Iraq, was also the subject of a U.S. related controversy in 1987. When an Iraqi missle, "accidentally" launched from a low flying aircraft, struck the USS STARK, killing 37 American sailors, several questions were raised concerning the United States' naval policy in the Persian Gulf. Among these were that of why our men were unable to defend themselves, why the U.S. was never aided by its allies in protecting the gulf's oil lanes, and why the Iran/Iraq War was being allowed to rage on unchecked.

Miles away, in Moscow, the U.S. embassy there was infiltrated by Soviet agents. Evidently, a resident Marine named Clayton Lonetree was "seduced" by a Russian translator whose "Uncle Sasha" turned out to be (get this) KGB agent Aleksei Yefimov. Charges against Lonetree and his alleged accomplice, Arnold Bracy state that they allowed members of the KGB to roam the embassy freely, gathering secret information. Weird.

Back at home, a court in New Jersey faced the first major child surrogacy/custody case in history. After months of deliberation, it was decided that the contract between "real" mother and surrogate mother was a valid one; and thus, "Baby M" was awarded to her "natural" parents, Elizabeth and William Stern. Surrogate mother Mary Beth Whitehead would not give up her fight, however, and the case will soon be brought before the New Jersey Supreme Court. Not too far away, a New York jury unanimously acquited Bernhard Goetz, the "Subway Vigilante," of shooting down four black youths who allegedly attempted to rob him nearly two years ago. Weird.

Now, back to scandal. November of 1986 saw Wall Street tycoon Ivan Boesky caught breaking the Exchange Commission's rules on insider trading. After years of cheating investors and businesses, he was forced to offer $100M penance and his aid in nabbing other financial "cheaters." Of course, scandal comes in two types of packages: money and sex. After Boesky covered the cash end, Gary Hart came along in May of 1987 to give the public the kind of story it really wanted. After the Miami Herald disclosed Hart's extramarital affair with a blonde model named Donna Rice, the Democratic presidential frontrunner withdrew from the 1988 election, claiming that the media's prying into his personal life was totally unjust. Weird.

Jim and Tammy Bakker, however, may get the "Scandal of the Year" award. This husband-wife TV Evangelist team managed to combine money and sex into something really weird. What began as the exposure of adultery on Jim's part, led to suspicion over Tammy's marital loyalty, and over their mutual abuse of the millions of dollars which they collected annually in the name of religion. This third issue was captured perfectly on national television when Ted Koppel coyly confronted a grotesquely made-up Tammy on the necessity of her air-conditioned doghouse. The remaining details of the Bakker scandal are not fit to be discussed in a "family" yearbook.

Speaking of comedy, the majority of the nation had a few laughs at Oral Roberts' expense when he asked his viewers for $8M in donations by March of '87, or else God would "call him home." When his deadline rolled around, Oral was still $1.3M short of "God's" demand. Unfortunately the public was cheated out of something which could have been very interesting when, at the last minute, a Florida dog track owner took pity on Roberts (whom he believed to be insane) and gave him the full amount. Weird.

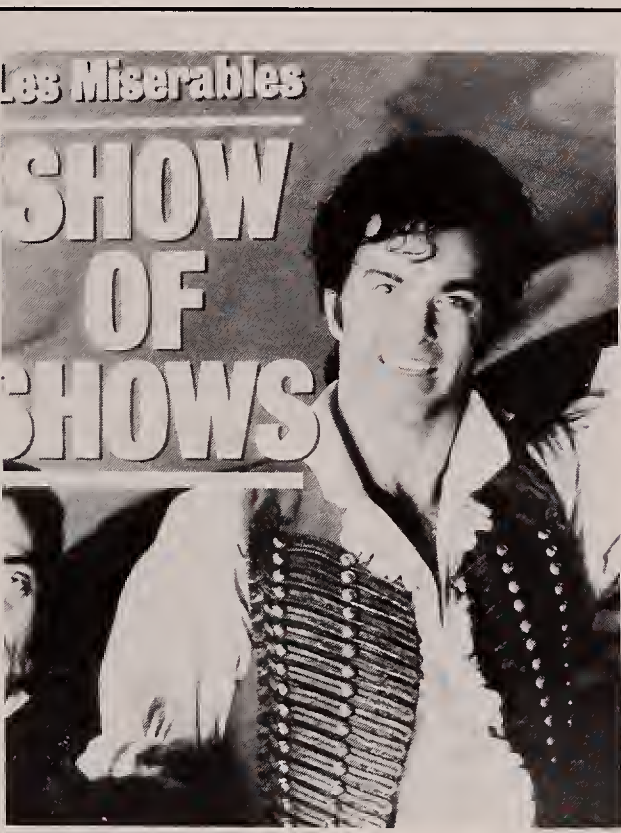
The Evening News

TIME
PLATOON
Viet Nam As It Really Was



Mad About Max
e Making a Video Cult

Ironically, one of the most serious elements of 1986-87 came from the world of entertainment. Oliver Stone's motion picture, Platoon, supplied millions of movie-goers with the most intense, disturbing, and accurate vision of the Vietnam War ever put onto film. In Platoon, war and killing were not glorified, but condemned; and this message was carried away by audiences who felt as if they had left a funeral instead of a movie.

On Broadway, the box offices were dominated by a new musical called Les Miserables. Based on a novel of the same name by Victor Hugo, it artfully presented a story of good and evil in 19th century revolutionary Paris. Advance ticket sales for Les Miserables exceeded $11M, nearly doubling the former U.S. record set by Cats.

Record stores in 1987 made sure to keep their shelves fully stocked with the new lp's by Bon Jovi and U2, while the Grammy Award for "Best Album" went to Paul Simon's "Graceland." Also successful were comeback attempts by several "old" bands from the sixties and seventies. Most noticeable were the Monkees and Boston.

Once again returning to the realm of weird, it can be seen that the most popular personalities of '86 - '87 were not exactly "normal." Put simply, America's cultural icons consisted of a woman who turned letters on a game show, a talking head in a box, and a lunatic in a grey suit and red bow tie. For those who spent '86 - '87 under a rock, the last sentence is referring to Vanna White, Max Headroom, and Pee Wee Herman.

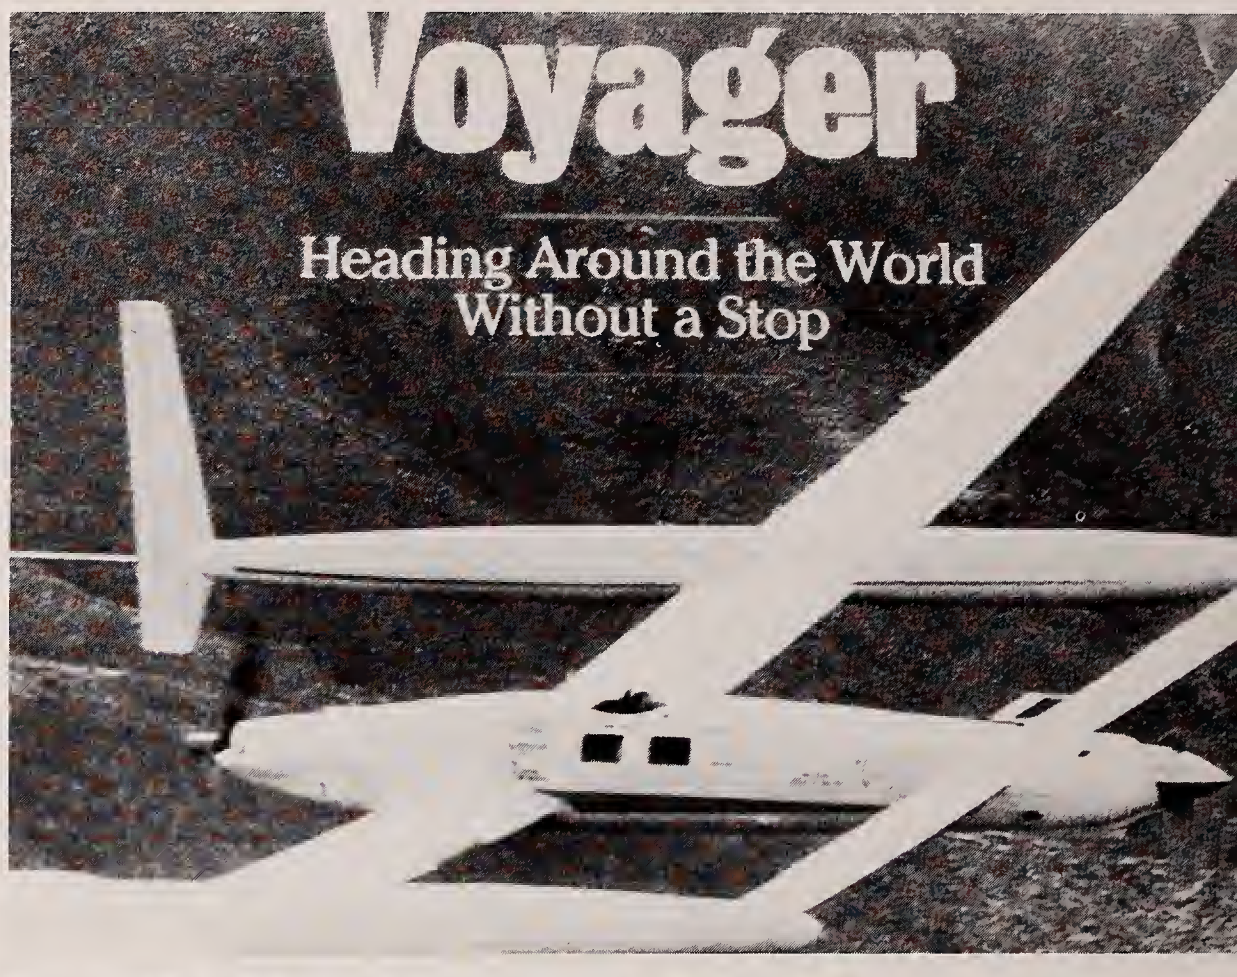
Milestones



Four personalities from past years who died in 1987 were comic actors Ted Knight and Jackie "The Great One" Gleason, dancing actor Fred Astaire, and famous 1960's pop artist Andy Warhol. Already recognized as "classics," the works of these men will live long after them.

Four other people who immortalized themselves in the history books during this time were the crew and designer of the Voyager, an ultra-light, engine-driven aircraft. Devised by Burt Rutan and flown by a crew of three consisting of Dick Rutan, Chuck Yeager, and Jeana Yeager, the Voyager completed the first non-stop flight around the world. On one tank of gas, this weird-looking plane flew 25,012 miles in 9 days, 3 minutes, and 44 seconds.

Meanwhile, in the water, U.S. sailor Dennis Conner brought home the America's Cup after having lost it to the Australians in 1983. In his new boat, the Stars & Stripes, Conner dominated all phases of the race; leading the Australian Kookaburra III (weird name) around every mark of every race before taking it all by 1:59 in the final one.

Back in Massachusetts, Boston sports fans were subjected to a gut-wrenching year. After watching their Red Sox surprise everyone and win the AL Pennant, and then take the World Series to seven games against the highly favored New York Mets, they ran into a brick wall as series MVP Ray Knight homered for the Mets and took away all the glory. An outstanding season by AL MVP Roger Clemens, however, provided Bostonians with just one of the many memories from a great season.

Another disappointment occurred in April of '87 when local hero Marvin Hagler lost a twelve round split decision to Sugar Ray Leonard. After three years off, Leonard came back as a 3 to 1 underdog to take away Hagler's title in a major upset. Weird.

Next, the L.A.Lakers came to Boston to prey on its weary fans. After losing the first two NBA Championship games big time on the west coast, the battle-scarred Celtics returned home, winning two games and losing another by one as the result of a "Jr. Skyhook" by MVP Magic Johnson. The Lakers, who had the NBA's best record in '87, went on to take the series home and win it in game six.

Elsewhere in sports (There are sports outside of Boston), Super Bowl XXI pitted the New York Giants against the Denver Broncos. Setting a Super Bowl record for passing percentage (88% completions), quarterback Phil Simms guided his team to a 39-20 victory in Pasenda's Rose Bowl.

In late May, something not-so-weird happened in Edmonton. The Oilers won their third Stanley Cup in the last four years. The reason that this was "not-so-weird" was because, for those last four years, they have had Wayne Gretzky who may be hockey's greatest all-time player on their team. After winning a record seventh straight NHL MVP award, Wayne Gretzky proceeded to lead the Oilers to a seven-game triumph over the Philadelphia Flyers.

In college sports, 1987 saw Sport's Illustrated's "Sportsman of the Year" equal Bear Bryant's record of six undefeated football seasons and coach the Penn State Nittany Lions to a 14-10 victory against the University of Miami Hurricanes, giving them the National Championship. In addition to these achievements, Joe Paterno's commitment to education helped him to win S.I.'s honor. Aside from donating $100G to the school library and $50G to the minority student fund, the football coach convinced P.S.U.'s trustees to raise the school's entry requirements. Now that's really weird.

A similar commitment to both athletes and education was shown by Bobby Knight, Coach of the Indiana University Hoosiers, who won the NCAA Basketball Championship in a 74-73 win over the Syracuse University Orangemen. By some weird coincidence, the basketball movie, Hoosiers, appeared in the theatres shortly before the victory.

Ah, the good old days. Now wasn't that fun? Even if you didn't think so, you will probably continue to remember most of what you just read for a long time to come. I think that we all know the reason for this, so all together now: It was WEIRD.

This year we set a new record for ads as 114 students collected over $26,000. The main reason for this success is the incentive given to each and every student who brings in an ad. Four students led the way with 109 ads worth almost $8,000. They were: Lisa Noke with 56 ads (A new record) worth $4,250, Rhonda Compton with 19 ads worth $1, 175, Karen Connelly and Sheila McGann with 17 ads each worth a total of $2,180. If you failed to bring in an ad please do not complain about the students who earned these pictures. On these ad pages we photographed over 400 seniors, approximately 75% of the class.

The numbers in bold print indicate the main section of the book. The PLUS and MINUS that appears at the end of some names indicates our record in giving each student with ads the proper amount of pictures. There are only 3 MINUS totals.

Thank you,

Volume 84 of the Waltham High School Mirror was printed by Jostens Printing and Publishing Division, 401 Science Park Road, State College, Pennsylvania 16801. The Jostens in plant consultant were Nikki Vescovi and Karen Stariha. The Jostens area representative was John Neister.

The cover was black onyx 840 material with spainish grain. Gold Foil 380 was applied to lid and backbone. A gold metalay was applied to the lid. The book was rounded and backed with red headbands.

The endsheets were printed in black ink on stainless steel 289. The artwork for the endsheet was done by Rick Brooks.

80 lb Matte #195 paper was used with black ink. The opening section was printed on Karisma Cream stock.

All photographs were taken by Purdy Vantine Studios, 100 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, MA. Th chief photographer was Mr. Terry Bleiler.

Of the 408 pages, 148 were printed in the four color process.

Sports headlines were set in Optima Bold as follows: Sports primary headlines were 48 point and secondary headlines were 18 point. Activities and Senior Week headlines were set in Brush Script as follows: Activities primary headlines were 36 point and secondary headlines were 24 point. Senior Week primary headlines were 30 point with the first letter printed in 48 point.

The body copy was set in 10 point Garamond.

Captions were set in 9 point Garamond with the lead in 9 point Garamond Bold.

Page numbers were set in 24 point Palatino Bold with the titles set in 14 point Optima. Artwork was done by Rick Brooks.

Individual copies sold for $25.00. Engraved copies were available if reserved by December 1, 1986. The press run was 525 copies. The total expenses of the book were $42,000. The Publication date for the yearbook was October 24, 1987.

Acknowledgements

On behalf of the staff I would like to thank the following persons for the extra effort they put forth in producing the final product.
..Terry Bleiler and his brother Jay for the outstanding work for the yearbook, Waltham High School, and the community.
..John Neister for continuing to come up with new ideas and layouts so that we may continue our "Tradition of Excellence."
..Karen Stariha and Anne Holmes for looking after our book at the State College plant and making us feel like #1
..Purdy VanTine Studios and Jostens Publishing Company because you are #1 we are #1
..Mr. John J. Regan for your support for the past 14 years. Good luck in your new job.
..Mr. F. Joseph Levey for being our biggest supporter and critic, at least we know it's not personal.
..Mr. Norman MacDonald and Mr. Thomas Foley for understanding that the yearbook is very important to the seniors.
..To the parents (Mr. and Mrs. Brunaccini, Mr. and Mrs. Noke, and Mr. and Mrs. Turner) for the use of their homes to do yearbook related work.
..Stephen Giangrande for putting up with Lisa and driving her around town and the Commonwealth of Mass on behalf of the yearbook.
..Rhonda Compton, Karen Connelly, and Sheila McGann for all their ads and support.
..Christine DeFilippo for chasing down the last few records and writeups and for putting up with Mr. Mac.
..Brenda Woodland for all the decisions you made - your best one was recommending Lisa.
..Lisa Noke for everything you did for the yearbook. Just look at the other 407 pages - IT SHOWS!
..My wife, Joan and my children; Shawn, Kerry, and Bryan for supporting me at all times and helping out "all the time."
